UNDERSTANDING MY PRIVATE INSURANCE BENEFITS FOR THERAPY

- You can receive therapy services in your home or in an outpatient setting, depending on your needs. You may also need equipment (e.g., cane, walker) sometimes called “durable medical equipment (DME).”

- Therapy in the home is for patients who are unable to leave the home without a lot of effort. If you are not homebound, you can get therapy in an outpatient setting.

- Coverage for therapy will vary depending on your insurance. You will need to contact your insurance provider to find out about your benefits.

- Contact your insurance provider to find out what coverage you have for therapy and equipment. Make sure you ask about your deductible and any copayment you might have.

- Some private insurance companies also pay for fitness memberships or may offer other services to assist with your care. Make sure you take advantage of the services they offer.
